Lyman Barret Writes of His Experiences Within Sound of Guns.

The following letter was received from Mr. Lyman Barret, formerly local editor of The Herald, but now in service in France. We pass it on to our readers without comment as Mr. Barret is well-known to Herald readers both as a writer and as a man. The letter follows:

Toul, France,
December 15, 1918.

Rev. Walter Greep,
Hartford, Ky.

Dear Friend:

I have neglected writing to many of my friends since entering the army, but I feel that you will understand and forgive. After being transferred from Louisville to Battle Creek, Michigan, I was placed in the machine gun company 338 Infantry, 85th Division, and with this organization I sailed from New York July 22 arriving at Liverpool, England August 3. From here we traveled to Winchester, England where we remained a few days in a rest camp before crossing the English channel to Lallouere. On August 13, at 1:00 a. m. we boarded freight trains and began our journey inland. During our journey of 3 days and nights we traveled to Versailles and thence southward to Soncerre. Here we crawled from the little box cars shouldered our packs once more, but had a very shore hike to Menetrol on the canal that runs parallel to the Loire river for hundreds of miles. During my stay here our platoon was quartered in an old butcher shop. We drilled every morning at this place, and in the afternoon we usually marched to the Loire river and had a swim. Early in September our company was sent to Lesaix, where all the machine gun units were centralized for intense training under the instruction of French officers. The drill here consisted of new methods and maneuvers, and was indeed intensive. In the mean time the other units of our division were sending men to fill up divisions at the front, but our company was kept intact until late in September, when several of us were transferred. I was sent to a newly formed company called the Classification company. After being a member of this company for a few days, I was transferred to another newly formed company known as the Division Engineers. October 1, I was made Acting Mess Sergeant which position I held until our company disbanded late in November. I am now back in the Classification company.

About the first of November our division moved from central France to the Toul sector. Here, during the last few days of the war we could see the bursting shells at night and hear the constant roar of cannon. I was fortunate enough to witness one air battle in which a German plane containing two aviators was brought down. At present, I am assisting in making and serving hot chocolate at the Y. M. C. A. There are thousands of casualties passing through this camp for classification and equipment. They consist of returned prisoners, sick and wounded recently dismissed from hospitals, men who have been A. W. O. L. and in fact those who have in anyway become separated from their organization. These fellows are usually discouraged and without money. The Y. M. C. A. is attempting to give them every assistance possible. They are furnished writing material and a pad to write, entertainment, free hot chocolate and tobacco, toilet articles, chocolate cake etc., at a nominal price. Since arriving in France I have slept in the following places: 1 hatcher shop, 1 pup tent, 1 squad tent, 4 different barracks, 6 different barns, 3 box cars and some other places. I have eaten while sitting or standing in or on every conceivable place from a box car to a manure pile. I have traveled several hundred miles in a small box car with from 35 to 42 others. Can you imagine a 3 day ride under these conditions? It's some experience. We are hoping to be home by early in the year but may remain until after the final treaty is signed. Could tell you some more interesting experiences were we on the same side of the Atlantic but my tallow candle is burning low and my straw bed is not yet properly prepared for the night so "au revoir."

Your friend,
PRIVATE LYMAN G. BARRETT.

RELIEF SOUGHT BY CONTRACTORS. Men From Many States Meet In Cleveland to Take Concerted Action.

Cleveland.—Government contractors and subcontractors from many States met here today to take concerted action to obtain relief by Congress through necessary legislation to legalize informal war contracts aggregating more than $1,500,000,000, which were canceled by the Government after the signing of the armistice.

The informal contracts include instances where manufacturers started to produce war materials under Government instructions by telephone, telegraph and letters. The signing of the armistice ended the Government's need for the material, and disbursing officers announced they were without authority to legalize the orders. Controller of the Currency Warwick ruled the manufacturers have no claim against the Government under present conditions.

Some of the contractors were about ready to deliver products when cancellations were made. Others had large stocks of partially completed material on hand.

Under a ruling of the Claims Board and the district ordinance offices the Government will deal only with prime contractors. Some of them contend they cannot liquidate the claims of their subcontractors unless they can be sure that the Government will settle with them immediately.

A measure designed to legalize the informal instructions is pending in Congress.

MAN AND WOMAN ARE FOUND DEAD.

Body of Soldier's Wife, 25 Years
Old, Clad in Silk Pajamas.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Clad in silk pajamas, the body of a young woman, believed by the police to be Mrs. Irene Hayford, 25 years old, of Colorado, was found lying on the floor beside the body of an unidentified man, aged about 35, in a Pennsylvania boarding house this morning. The woman was shot through the abdomen and the man through the head. A revolver was found nearby. The man was fully dressed.

Letters from the woman's husband, now in France, and a soldier at Camp Lee, Va., found in the room, failed to throw any light on the tragedy.

OWENSBORO BOY CITED IN ORDERS.

Frankfort, Ky.—Cited in orders, a bit of paper for which heroes have died is the news concerning Second Lieut. William P. Ringo, 317th Field Signal Battalion, received by his father, Ben D. Ringo, of the State Tax Commission, who had been anxiously awaiting word from his son ever since the armistice was signed.

Lieut. Ringo was too busy to write and there weren't any mail boxes in the part of the Argonne forest where he was working anyway.

The whole battalion was mentioned, as "without rest or relief, it maintained liaison and communications with twelve combat divisions at various times on duty under the corps, who carried, in anticipation, their lines of communication to the front line under artillery and small arm fire and through gassed areas during the period September 26 to November 11."

Concerning Lieut. Ringo the order stated:

"He distinguished himself in the field by constructing and maintaining telephonic lines of communication, constantly under hostile artillery fire and with practically no means of transportation."

Lieut. Ringo is an Owensboro boy.

WAS IT CURIOSITY SHOP?

"What did you want to go into that store for?" asked Mr. Gabb.

"For curiosity," replied Mrs. Gabb.

"Curiosity!" exclaimed Mr. Gabb. "I thought a woman never ran out of that."

With the Owensboro Business House.

The editor of this paper made a business pilgrimage last week, during which he visited most of the enterprising business houses in our neighboring city, Owensboro, and was surprised at the amount of business that goes from Ohio County to the Ohio valley metropolis. Most of the stores were crowded and many familiar faces from Ohio county were seen. The editor's tour of the stores was mostly along Main and Third Streets with a little side-wandering up Frederica.

Dropping in bright and early into S. W. ANDERSON'S busy store, he expected to get there before the rush and have time to talk with the progressive manager, Mr. Arnold, but the throngs had beaten us there and were huying of the superb line of clothing rather lavishly. All of the busy corps of clerks and salespeople whom Mr. Anderson employs were busy and then could hardly wait on the trade. Mr. Anderson carries one of the finest lines of clothing and drygoods in Owensboro and will tell the Herald readers of the good things he has to offer each week during the year.

From Mr. Anderson's we wandered into the mammoth store of MCATEE, LYDDANE, RAY, who also carry a fine line of clothing and drygoods. Their manager, Mr. Rafter, is making a special effort to please every customer and one once made is one kept.

Dropping into the store of MR. FRED WEIR, we were impressed by the courtesy shown and the general progressiveness of the firm. Being conducted by young men, and each one having only one aim in view—to please the customer—Ohio County traders can expect good bargains and the best of treatment at Mr. Weir's.

MRS. JULIA MITCHELL DEAD.

Mrs. Julia Mitchell, one of the oldest women in Owensboro, died Wednesday morning at 5 o'clock at the home of her niece, Mrs. George D. Mattingly, of infirmities incident to old age. She was 94 years old, and was born near Hartford on September 1st, 1824. The deceased is survived by Mrs. George D. Mattingly, of Owensboro and three nieces, Misses Mattie and Willis Harrison and Mrs. Anna Scott, of Shelbyville.

A short funeral service was held at the residence Thursday morning at 7:30 o'clock by the pastor of the Settle Memorial church. The remains were taken to Hartford and buried in the family ground at the Milton Taylor cemetery.

Aunt "Julia" as she was familiarly known here, had a host of relatives and friends who will miss her greatly.

PLEASANT SOCIAL EVENT.

One of the most pleasing social events of the season was a six-o'clock dinner given at the residence of Rev. A. D. Litchfield last Saturday night at which several of Brother Litchfield's friends and parishioners were present. Rev. and Mrs. Litchfield were the hosts and very-pleasant reports one of the most enjoyable evenings of the year spent in social gathering.

Judge Wilson, whose epileptical judgment is taken for authority, reports a dinner that was second to none in his praise of Mrs. Litchfield as a hostess. A four course meal was served, after which the remainder of the evening was spent in pleasant conversation and reminiscences. Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Hunter; Judge and Mrs. John B. Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. B. Carson; Capt. J. G. Keenan and wife; Mr. and Mrs. Ira D. Bean.

PUBLIC SALE.

Wednesday, January 23, 1919, I will offer for sale at my farm, two miles West of Hartford, on the Livermore road, the following described property:

One 4-year-old mare; pair of good young mules 15½ hands high; two colts; 10 head of cattle; 400 bushels of corn; 10 tons of hay; 12 head of hogs; wagon; buggy; all kinds of farming implements; Buick car; household and kitchen furniture; Hanes piano, cost $300 five years ago. These different articles will be sold at some price, as I am going to quit farming.

JAMES T. RALPH, Route 3.

Terms made known on day of sale.

We side-stepped into LEVY'S for a look around and soon found it was too busy a place for loafing. So after looking through their excellent line of clothing, we were permitted to tell our readers through our advertising columns of the bargains to be found there. Watch The Herald for Levy's ad.

MR. FRANK GUNTHER, the harness man, must have taken us for a new customer by the jovial smile he gave us, and finding we were of the pestiferous journalistic species, he gladly showed us through the store where he carries a full line of leather goods at moderate prices. If you read the local column of the Herald, you will learn more of Mr. Gunther's wares later on.

We sauntered by HARDWICK'S JEWELRY STORE and were pleasantly shown around by Mr. Hardwick. He carries a complete line of the finest jewelry and will be glad to show his many Ohio County friends the best of courtesy and finest jewelry.

We wandered over on Fourth to the CENTRAL MOTORS CO., those who handle the famous Dodge car, and they are preparing for a great sale of Dodge cars in this section. Messrs. J. P. Casebier & Co., of Beaver Dam, will be in charge of the sales in this County.

Just as we were starting to the train we dropped by the DELL DRY CLEANING PLANT, the only dry-cleaning plant this side of Louisville. It is well equipped in every respect and will give the best of service. Try them. Parcel post packages their specialty.

All the above-named firms are going to offer the choicest bargains to Herald readers during the coming year. It will pay you to read The Herald and keep up with them.

CAPTURED AFTER BEING WOUNDED 32 TIMES.

Winneton, Ky.—Ed Morris, wounded thirty-two times when he escaped from a Sheriff's posse that was trying to arrest him for the killing of Charles Williams at Frankfort last Monday, was captured at Paducah after he had made his way from this city to meet his sister. Morris had been in hiding and was on the way to Louisville, where his wife and child were living. At this meeting he was captured by a posse of policemen led by Sheriff Bob Moore, and taken to the county jail. Morris is charged with the killing of Charles Williams, who was shot and killed in the shooting.

20 MEN DIVISION ON WESTERN FRONT.

Paris.—The German armistice commissioners, according to a Berlin dispatch, have transmitted to the Allied commissioners a note stating that on the western front, there are twenty divisions, of which the older classes have been discharged. It is added that the dissolution of the German high command is proceeding.

INSTALLATION SERVICE.

A special service will be held at the Methodist church on next Sunday. Officers and Teachers of the Sunday School together with the officers of the church will be given public recognition. A suitable Program will be arranged and the pastor will present the subject of Official Responsibility. The subject for the regular service will be "Faith and Love." Every member of the church is asked to be present and bring their friends and neighbors with them.

OUR RETURNING HEROES.

Below are given the names of Ohio County boys who have returned from service overseas, as they have been given to us. We would be glad if all parents and relatives of soldiers who have returned from over there would send in the name of the soldier as it is not our desire to leave out a single name if we know it. Below are the names so far submitted:

Manning Bennett.

Roscoe Westendorf.

First Lieutenant Everett Likens.

LOCAL NOTES.

Mr. J. B. Allen visited relatives at Horse Branch Tuesday.

See "America's Answer" at the Ideal Theatre, Beaver Dam, Jan. 20, at 2:30 and 7:30 P. M.

Mr. W. H. Collins returned Sunday from a business trip to Memphis and Nashville Tennessee.

Don't fail to see the great war-film at the Ideal Theatre, Beaver Dam, next Monday night.

Mrs. N. B. Davis, of Horse Branch, visited her daughter, Mrs. Bond White, at Rockport, last week.

Mr. Wavy S. L. Clair, of Akroa, Ohio, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. St. Clair, at Horse Branch.

Go to ACTON BROS., for your groceries where you can get best values for your produce and money.

Frank Pardon will give his Ohio County friends the best jewelry at the lowest reasonable price. See him when in Owensboro.

The best place to purchase a nice and most up-to-date piece of furniture at the lowest price is at ACTON BROS.

Second official war-film, "America's Answer" will be shown at the Ideal Theatre, Beaver Dam, next Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ferguson have returned to their home at Sturgis, Ky., after visiting friends and relatives in the county.

If you want your home to look good buy one of those three piece Havenette Suits from ACTON BROS.

Miss Margaret Marks has resigned as secretary of the Ohio County Ky., Chapter of the American Red Cross. Miss Marks has given her services to this work since the organization of the County Chapter.

A twin picture to "Pershing's Riders" in "America's Answer," the great war picture to be shown at the Ideal Theatre, Beaver Dam, next Monday night. Don't fail to see it.

Corliss Shultz, who closed a course at the Warren County Board of Health, is now at his home near Hartford, Ky., after a short stay at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. George Arnold, of Owensboro, visited Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Campbell at Horse Branch, last week. Mr. Arnold was formerly conductor on the Owensboro and Horse Branch train until he was forced to give up his position owing to ill health.

The congregation at Mt. Hermon on last Sunday was large and the service delightful. This was the first service since the flu ban was lifted. The pastor presented the needs of the Starving Americans and others and an offering amounting to $30.00 was quickly made.

Mr. Gay Ranney, who for some time has been the bookkeeper for the Broadway Coal Company, at Zionsville, has resigned his position and is planning to go to Iowa. Mr. Ranney has served efficiently in all functions of patriotic interest that have taken place in the county and is well-known. His many friends will regret to lose him from our county.

OHIO COUNTY BEAN AND PEA GROWERS ASSOCIATION.

Hartford, Ky.

AN IMPROVEMENT IN TOBACCO PRICES

An Average of $14.23 is Made
On Owensboro Market
Monday.

There was a reported sale of 652,335 pounds of Pryor tobacco at the loose leaf warehouses of Owensboro on Monday. The growers realized $94,547.54 on the sale. The general average was $14.23, which was an advance over the averages of last week. There was an advance of from $1 to $2 on the leaf, but the trash and lugs remained at about the same figures.

The Daviess County Co., and the Owensboro Warehouse Co., have decided to get from under the "house average" censorship, and have announced that they are for publicity, and in the future will give to the newspapers all available facts and figures on sales.—Owensboro Messenger.

COURIER-JOURNAL MAKES PLANS FOR PEACE CONFERENCE.

An out of the ordinary example of newspaper enterprise is being shown by the Louisville Courier-Journal in the display advertising announcement appearing elsewhere in this issue. The purpose of this advertisement is to acquaint the people of Kentucky and the Louisville territory with the foreign news service of the paper.

With the signing of the armistice in November the Courier-Journal began extensive preparations for covering the Peace Conference to follow by sending Arthur B. Krock, Editorial Manager of the paper, to Paris, from which city he is now sending daily cables exclusively to the Courier-Journal. Already the Courier-Journal had arranged with the New York Times for its complete foreign cable and wireless service by special wire from New York each night, in addition to receiving its full bonded wire and cable service day and night, of the Associated Press.

No other daily newspaper in this territory has shown such enterprise and aggressiveness in its effort to give its readers complete, accurate and up-to-the minute reports of the "great history-making Peace Conference," which during the next few weeks is expected to determine the peace Germany, Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey must pay for the loss of more than four years of blood and treasure and destruction to the world.

The Courier-Journal, in its advertisement, has announced a special "Peace Conference" period, giving every opportunity for the people of this territory to become fully informed upon the deliberations of the envoys in Paris, when they begin to fix terms the Allies shall demand of their conquered foes.

COUNTY COURT NOTES.

Quarterly court convened Monday and only two cases were disposed of. Roy Shultz, colored, of Rockport, charged with having liquor in his possession for the purpose of sale, was tried by a jury and acquitted.

Agnes Taylor Brookins, of color, charged with breach of the peace on the peculiar charge of "bluffing" was not tried but the case was filed away.

HONOR SERVICE.

A special service will be held at the Beda Cumberland Presbyterian Church the third Sunday in this month in honor of the boys who have gone from that church into the service of their country. A large crowd is expected and a good service is in store for them. Sermon will be preached by the pastor, Rev. L. D. Harrell, of Caneville.

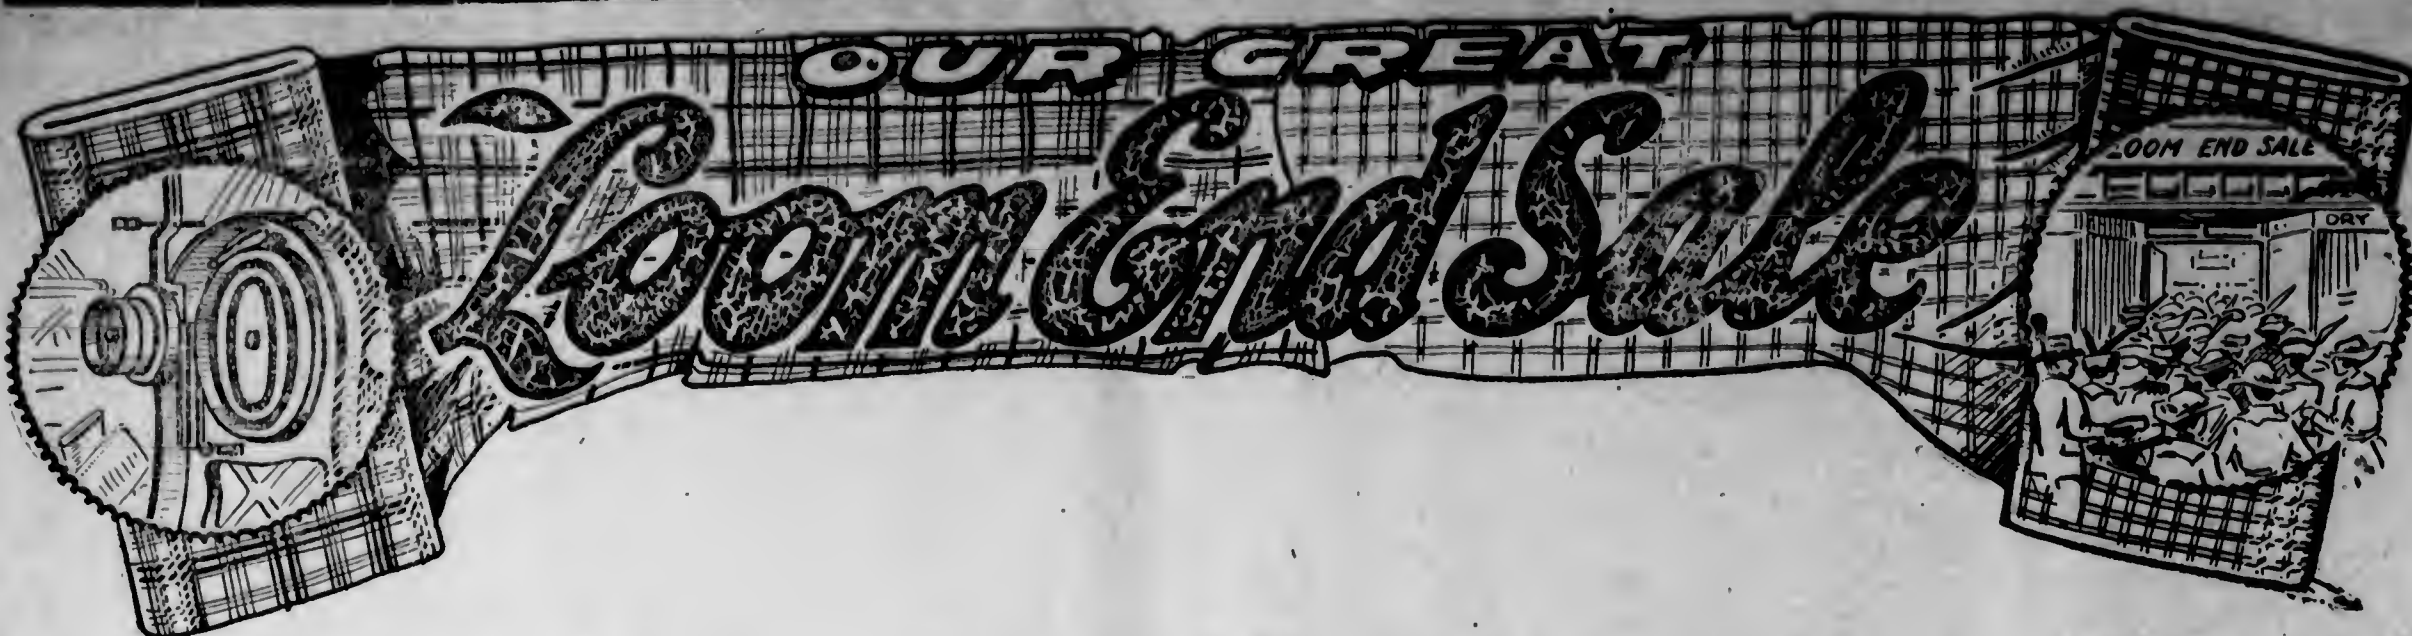

NEW SUITS FILED IN CIRCUIT COURT.

Only three new suits have been filed in the Circuit Court since the last list was given for publication. They are as follows:

Guenther & Gant vs. John W. Brand, et al.

Mary J. Guenther and M. D. Gant vs. John M. Brand.

Guenther Hardware Co., vs. John M. Brand.

Begins Friday, Jan. 17--Closes Sat., Feb. 1

Nothing Reserved Except Groceries, Automobiles, Tractors, Farming Implements and Accessories. Everything Else Subject to a 10 Per Cent Reduction.

Watch For The Red Tags. Red Tags Mean Big Bargains.

This is to remind you that the bars are down and the lids off, and that a rich harvest of good merchandise at bargain prices will greet you every day during our BIG LOOM END SALE. Besides THOUSANDS of YARDS of LOOM END CALICOES, PERCALS, GINGHAMS, SHIRTINGS, WHITE GOODS, SUITINGS, FANCY SATEENS, SILKS, VOILS, SCRIMS, &c., every remnant and every odd lot from every department will be out on tables at money saving prices. Ladies' Coat Suits, Cloaks, Dresses, Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Mackanaws will be offered at prices that will make a clean sweep of the entire stock.

There has never been a more opportune time to buy merchandise than now. Spring merchandise in almost every instance will be higher than present regular prices. The world must be clothed largely from our supply and still higher prices may be expected. Lower prices on merchandise may be several years in adjustment. Supply every necessity during the big sale. Peace conditions impose duties and responsibilities no less important than war. Be on hand the first day of this sale and every day thereafter until every necessity is provided. Use your savings on purchases to swell your subscription to feed and clothe the war stricken across the sea.

THE VENEER OF THE YEARS

BY WALTER GREEP.

CHAPTER 117.

THE FIRST COATING.

At Devondale the April days went sweetly and slowly by, touched by the warmth of gentle sunshine and thrilled by the splash of silvery showers. Flowers were everywhere in bloom. Snowdrops carpeted the meadows and violets lined the fence rows; and more and more beautiful became the lilac bush, with its great prolific blossoms, filling the air with its delicate perfume. The amorous songs of the feathered choristers stole on the charmed ear of the nature lover from every hidden bower. All Nature was in her gentlest mood, dressed in her wedding gowns, the flowery wreath in her sparkling hair, waiting for the bridal hour to come. Never was such a spring as came after such an unusually dreary winter.

But Samantha did not appreciate it at all. After the parting at the garden gate took place and Merlin had departed for Chicago, she went about with bowed head continually as if she were the captain of a funeral procession, was sailing alone the seas of dejection and figured prominently in several other mournful circumstances. The neighbors said she was just pining away, and he was—or blanching away rather, for each day she fervently kissed a withering lilac blossom, counting its petals over and over like beads of a rosary. And she was in dead earnest. In fact she was in that idyllic state of emotional progress which old folks are inclined to term "half-love." Still it is the purest and most ideal of life's loves and in after years awakens in the heart the sweetest memories. Even if it is "half-love," considering the innocence of the blessed state of childhood, it would seem infinitely purer than "cow-love." Youth is the proper time for love, even though it may at times be marked by too much demonstration; for what is a more disgusting sight than an old bachelor and maid making love?

So Samantha continued to droop about, a picture of sorrow, with her head hung low and the wandering curls weaving a cobweb over her pretty brow. The reason was she did not comb them as often as she had been used to doing. That she was hard hit, and by a "love-lick" it was plain to be seen. One of her favorite past times was to wander over the spots where she had roamed with Merlin or loitered by his side in the cool of summer evenings. These lonely pathways where oft they had strayed at dusk or held their twilight trysts invited her; the shady lane which led out to her home held for her a thousand hallowed memories. Over and over she must visit them in order to keep the memory of Merlin fresh in her heart.

She would usually start out in the morning with her lunch basket under her arm, revisit all the old scenes, eat her lunch and cover the remainder of her "beat" by mid-afternoon. But after a time it grew monotonous and she would like to have had a change of program. It may have been the spring days were too beautiful to allow of a heavy heart; it may have been the breach between her and her first love was growing a little wider with the passing of each day. It is difficult for the darkest clouds to shut out completely the light of the rising sun. And it was difficult for the joyful temperament of youth to be hidden by a cloud of grief—assumed grief—at that, the creation of a romantic emotional nature. However, Samantha attempted to continue her pilgrimages, for she feared that to discontinue them would be a sign that her affection was waning.

On one particular morning she set out before the sun had risen, I do not know her reason for such an early start unless it was because the early strawberries were ripe and she wished to gather some before the day became too warm for picking. Strawberries tasted good on lover's lonesome journeys. At any rate she walked sadly along trying to get the tears started. But they would not flow. They were stnkhorn, those tears. But Samantha was no exception on this point. For ourselves we are willing to give the palm to the girl who can successfully cry over a fancied sorrow on a bright spring morning with all the world in tune.

But by and by she came to the Academy. When she looked upon the tall building, standing so lonesomely among the green trees, and thought of the happy moments she had spent there, the tears started into her eyes. Just started, however, for she brushed them aside with her handkerchief and seated herself upon the grassy campus. Ah, this was the ideal spot for reading and musing such as she had in view! She opened her lunch basket and took from it an old dried lilac blossom, kissed it lightly, held it against her cheek in a way that beggars description and laid on the grass beside her. Then she took from the basket a book and opened it at a place where the corner of the leaf was turned down, and the page was stained with tears. The book was bound in cloth and printed on coarse paper in big type. It was not a text-book or a history as you may suppose. It was a novel and more than that—a Romance! Not a book that touches with gentle fingers the actuality of life and makes dark and sordid pictures beautiful to behold. Nor one that idealizes the purity of human love and strives to lift the reader above the plain of craven passion. It was the kind of book that tends to exalt the emotions of the young, to carry them away from the Real into the realms of the Impossible, to hold before them an ignis-fatus and incite them to rash deeds. Such books as delineate the truth of things yet space the Real with a touch of the Ideal are truly uplifting, but Samantha had ceased to read them. They were too stale.

She sighed when she began reading. Her glance sped to the building, over the campus, and around about to see that no one was listening, then she read: "In the still afterglow, safe away from the hum of the city, Arthur sat dreaming of his sweetheart far away. He could see her as he had seen her last, in the little white frock with a rose in her hair, when she gave him her promise that she would be forever true. He could hear her voice when she whispered so softly in last goodbye. After all the years that they had been apart, in his memory she stood incarnate before him. O, dearest, dearest Pearl! he cried in soul-agony, wiping the perspiration from his aching brow; are you true to me still? Tell me, dearest, tell me."

Samantha sighed a long sigh. Turning over the leaves of the book she soon came upon the climax and her favorite passage: "And that night in his dreams she came and stood beside him and administered to him. Often she bent low and kissed him gently. But at morning she said, 'Now, Arthur, I must go away.' 'One more kiss,' he cried aloud. When the doctor came in that morning he found him raving in delirium. That night, still murmuring her name, he passed away."

When she finished reading this she laid the book aside. Her heart was full to the overflowing. She arose slowly and stood looking toward the Academy, tears fairly streaming from her eyes. Then she stretched forth her hands dramatically and said in a sort of chant: "O Merlin, are you dreaming of me this morning, far away in the city? Never fear, I am true and will always be. When you have achieved success, return and you will find me waiting still." Then she beat her breast like she had once seen a motion-picture heroine do.

"What the thunder's the matter with you, Samantha? (Are ye goin' crazy?)" The voice came over the campus fence just back of her.

She turned quickly and began, removing tears with her handkerchief all the while: "Oh, hello Oscar, I was just—I was—I—"

"What the dickens have ye been cryin' about?" he asked, noticing the color of what had been the white of her eyes, and the yet-remaining teardrops.

"Oh, I wasn't crying, Oscar. It was only the bad cold that I have."

"Huh. Funnier had cold I ever seen. Never knowed of one makin' your eyes that red before. And what are you doin' over here anyway? Didn't you know school was out?"

"Of course I knew school was out. Am I not one of the pupils?"

"No, I didn't come to school. I came over here to read a new book I got from cousin Katy yesterday."

"Story-book, eh?"

"Why yes, certainly."

"Uhuh, I knowed it. That was the reason for you doin' all them gesticulations. Gee! If I'd a seen a camera man near I'd a thought you was aetin' for the movies like I seen them do up at Louisville last fall. Come on over to my house. Samantha, sis has a new kind of flower she wants to show you."

"Oh, but Oscar—" she began protesting.

"Never mind the lunch basket. I'll carry that and the book too. Come on."

She walked beside Oscar to his home where she discussed flowers with his sister until noon. Thus her wanderings were cut short that day. They were never renewed.

BOW-WOW! BOW-WOW! KENNEL ONE, ORDER OF HOUNDS, FORMED

Chicago.—A national organization known as the Exalted Society of Order Hounds, composed of order salesmen from all branches of commerce and industry, was organized to-day with the installation of Kennel No. 1. The name was taken as a tribute to the faithful hound, and the society, semi-secret and fraternal was formed to develop scientific selling methods and higher ideals in the lives of the members. Kennel officers are senior watchdog, junior watchdog, official growler and big barker.

THE MOONLIGHT SCHOOL.

The moonlight school has gone a long way ahead of the day school in its curriculum, teaching as it does, a course in goods roads, domestic science, patriotism, agriculture, health and sanitation, all in brief and practical form. Even the reading lessons are based not on trivial things, but on good roads, good farming, health, thrift and such subjects. Not even a copy is lost in writing in the moonlight school. Instead of writing, "Many men of many minds; many men of many kinds," students write such a copy as "I will work for good roads," "I will build a silo," "I will spray my fruit trees," "The man who sells his vote, sells his honor." In moonlight schools, other subjects than reading and writing have always been taught. Reading and writing occupy the most important place on the program, it is true, but practical arithmetic and other subjects have come in for their full share.

The moonlight school is not for those alone who cannot read and write, but for all persons of limited education and for all who wish to spend six weeks in studying for improvement. Many persons have reviewed their history and many have learned to read and write better in the moonlight schools. Those who left school early have found it their opportunity to make further advancement.

As a community center, the moonlight school has been a powerful institution, gathering all of the people in the district within its walls and upon a common basis. They have developed a social life and a community interest during their six weeks' attendance that could hardly have been brought about so rapidly by infrequent meetings.

The effect of the course in good roads in the moonlight schools has been seen in several counties by an awakened interest in road building. Local effort has followed and student volunteers have come out and improved the roadway. An ardent sentiment for good roads has always followed the good roads course in these schools. Sunday schools have been organized, farmers' and housekeepers' clubs and various other organizations for improvement of the community as after effects of the moonlight school.

DON'T THROW AWAY Your Old Tires

Conserve and Help Lick the Kaiser

THIS is to show you why "DRI-KURE RETREDING" with a 3,500-mile guarantee will save you one-half to two-thirds on your tire bill.

"Dri-Kure Retreding" is a proven factory method—not the old "kettle" process that soaks the carcass of your tire with steam, that, when cold, turns to water and rots the fabric.

"Dri-Kure" method is operated by DRY HEAT under 3,000 pounds pressure. The mere fact that racing drivers use tires cured by the Dri-Kure Process is proof that we build our treads for service.

Tom Aley, Chicago racing driver, averaged 104 miles per hour for 100 miles at Chicago Speedway, June 22, 1918, without a tire change and all on Retreded Tires. There's a reason.

Now Compare the Cost and Saving

Compare the cost of the tire you have on your car now and the cost of Dri-Kure Retreding, the same size. The chart of prices will show you the cost of retreading.

Now Figure the Saving for Yourself and remember that every tire we retread is guaranteed for 3,500 miles. Is this saving worth while? Think it over. Who wouldn't want to save from one-half to one-third of their tire bills?

We will gladly show you the complete detail and extend to you a personal invitation to come in for a chat. We will prove to you the success of this process to your own satisfaction.

WHISKY MARKED "PAINT"

Knoxville, Tenn.—Three very innocent looking barrels of "paint" were shipped to a manufacturing concern at Elizabethtown, Carter County, from Cincinnati, actually containing between 300 and 400 quarts of Newport Club Whisky, according to J. A. Higgins, division deputy internal revenue collector, who returned to Knoxville on Wednesday morning after taking possession of the booze for the government.

M. F. Hopkins and J. D. Boone of the Hopkins Manufacturing Company have been arrested by the state authorities and held to the court on a charge of violating the Tennessee bone dry law, Mr. Higgins said. Both are prominent Elizabethtown business men.

PERUNA A WONDERFUL MEDICINE

Rundown and Unable to Work

"I am pleased to recommend Peruna as it was beneficial in restoring my health when I was all run down from overwork and nervous worry and was unable to take up my regular work. A friend recommended Peruna and said he was sure that it would restore my strength. I soon found that I was getting better and in a little over two months I was able to resume my duties with renewed vigor and strength. It certainly is a wonderful medicine to vitalize the system."

The German people are seeing a little of the glories of war.

If the Ship of State rides safely, Boreas the woman's vote, for the hand that rocks the cradle would surely rock the boat.

The fights between the "Reds" and the other colors in the European capitals recalls so many the old college days. Rah for the Reds and Etcetera.

Now that the war is over and the excitement is about past we are going to petition Mrs. Pankhurst to come forward from her hiding place and start the fun all over again.

The Germans seem to be determined to fight, if not with the other nations, then among themselves. Also, Russia, and on the face of things, probably fighting will occur in Ireland. Universal peace is yet some time in the distance.

When the Nation's League is formed the countries will be one, in spirit and action. If this proves a success we will see a literal verification of the prophecy, "They shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks and they shall learn war no more."

It seems the Influenza epidemic has about spent its force. In some places it seems to have taken another hold but in most communities it is on the wane or has disappeared entirely. Hartford was indeed fortunate in that during all the siege of the dreaded malady not a single death occurred here from it.

As we think of it, we wish our readers in sending in the names of their boys for the overseas column would specify whether he is white or colored. Of course if we know you personally, we can arrange it ourselves, but we may not know you and by getting his name in the wrong place, cause some unpleasantness and discomfort for both you and ourselves.

There will likely be a new factor in politics during the next few years and that will be the soldier candidate and the soldier vote. It is rumored that a soldier will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor if he arrives home from France in time. He was wounded several times, and is greatly beloved. Judge Denhard would doubtless run a strong race.

We hope that one of the good results of the peace conference will be the greeting of autonomy to Palestine. The land of the Fathers has long struggled under a foreign yoke, first the Assyrians, then the Ottomans and every tribe that evinced a desire for conquest picked upon Palestine as a fitting subject for their ravages. Amidst the circling tribes of heathens and barbarians a little Christian nation has kept the faith through all these years. Armenia now calls out for freedom and a place among the nations of the world. We trust they shall be given Palestine, the land of the Savior for whom they have so suffered, to hold as their own.

The Sinn Feiners again sound their craven cries in Dublin. Ireland is a tremble with their designs. The world looks on in seeming complacency at this prospect of trouble and says nothing. It is not the free want; it is a place and power for a few of their demagogues. They stand upon the same footing as the Bolshevik open rebellion against law and law—open rebellion against law and the nations that stand for order—and the resorting to means of violence to attain their ends. The Americans will have no patience with these Irish villains who cheered German prisoners and hissed American soldiers. It was they who gave aid and comfort to Germany; who raised a revolution when things seemed darkest for the Allied cause;

ANNOUNCEMENT OF

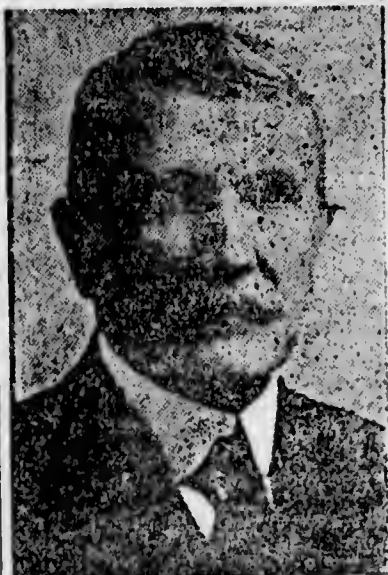

JOHN D. CARROLL

Candidate for Democratic Nomination for Governor.

Because of that most excellent law which limits a candidate for Governor to $10,000, or about $4 to the county, to promote his candidacy, it has been necessary to print my complete announcement in pamphlet form, and it will be distributed throughout the State. It contains a full statement of my views on public questions, and I would like to see a copy in the hands of every Democratic voter. In this brief space, I have attempted to summarize the more important subjects touched on in that pamphlet, which will be sent to anyone requesting it.

Liquor Question.

I will vote for and support the Amendment to the Constitution to prohibit the manufacture, sale and transportation of spirituous, vinous, malt and other intoxicating liquors. If elected, I will honestly and earnestly use all legitimate efforts to make effective by legislation the letter as well as the spirit of this amendment.

Woman Suffrage.

Should the proposed Amendment to the Constitution be adopted by Congress, I will favor ratification by the Kentucky Legislature. If this amendment does not pass Congress, I favor submitting an amendment to the Constitution of Kentucky conferring suffrage upon women, and will vote for it.

Education.

I have always been, and am now, devotedly attached to the Common School System. I am heartily in favor of making ample provision to secure for every child in the State an opportunity to obtain at least a good common school education. Furthermore, every effort ought to be directed to the enforcement of the compulsory school law so that every child within school years may be required to attend some school.

Public Roads.

I favor thorough co-ordination between State and county effort in road work so that good results may be obtained from the expenditure of State funds.

Agriculture.

As the chief wealth of our State is found in its agriculture, I favor putting the State Agricultural Department on such a financial basis as will enable it to render to the farmers of the State the most efficient and practical service.

New Tax Law.

The principle of classification of property and imposition of a different rate of taxation should not, in my judgment, be changed until a fair trial has demonstrated its injustice. Such inequalities as may be in the present law should be cured by proper legislation.

State Debt.

The State debt should not be permitted to grow larger, and I would veto all appropriations in excess of revenue and try to arrange the affairs of the State so the present indebtedness may be retired without increasing taxes.

Labor.

Being a friend of labor and sympathizing with every legitimate effort to better living conditions, I favor such legislation as will promote the comfort and prosperity of the wage earner.

Law and Order.

Confident that the supremacy of law and preservation of order are indispensable to our peace and happiness, I am and always have been a strong advocate of speedy and vigorous enforcement of law. I abhor mob law and am gratified that there will be submitted to the voters at the November election an amendment to the Constitution providing for the removal of any Peace Officer for neglect of duty. I will vote for this amendment and if elected will urge the Legislature to enact suitable laws for its enforcement.

Pardons.

I think the power to pardon should be sparingly exercised and pardon granted only when the ends of justice demand.

Nonpartisan Judiciary.

The integrity and freedom from partisan bias of the judiciary of the State is a matter for congratulation of every citizen. I believe, however, that the judiciary should be nonpartisan to the end there may not even be a suspicion that their judgment was warped by partisan feeling.

Nonpartisan Institutions.

Our public institutions should be honestly and absolutely divorced from partisan politics. Faithful and competent men should not be removed for partisan purposes or political reasons.

Fair Elections—Corrupt Practice Act.

Our Corrupt Practice Act is a long and fine step toward preventing bribery because it limits the sum that a candidate may spend. The provisions of this act I intend to observe strictly, according to its letter as well as its spirit, although no doing will necessarily deprive me of the benefit of much legitimate letter writing and helpful advertising.

Independent Vote.

If the Democratic party desires to win its most nominal candidates who can vote the independent vote, the Democrats should nominate that man, whether it be myself or another, who can poll the largest vote in the November election.

Business Administration.

Believing that the State may be likened to a big business corporation, I shall favor its business being conducted as nearly as possible in the same economical and efficient manner as the affairs of a large and well-managed business concern. I will devote all my time and attention to looking after State business, having no other ambition than that of being known as a business Governor, and during the term shall not be a candidate.

Where Candidate Lives.

The section of the State that candidates come from is not material. Stanley, from Western Kentucky, received in the State 4,136 more votes than Black, from Eastern Kentucky, and in two of the thirty-one mountain counties the vote was a tie between them. In twenty-two of the other twenty-nine Stanley got a majority over Black.

Soldiers' Monument.

To perpetuate the heroic deeds of our soldiers who gave their lives for the honor and safety of their State and Nation and are now sleeping in foreign lands, I advocate the erection of a noble monument that will be enduring evidence of the grateful remembrance we who are living hold the names and memory of those who have died.

Conclusion.

In this brief statement, I have set forth the principles I believe in and shall advocate, and in the primary election I respectfully ask the support of those Democrats who inspire my position and who believe, if nominated and elected, I will honestly endeavor to put them into effective form.

GENERAL BELL DIES.

New York.—Major General J. Franklin Bell, commander of the department of the east, died tonight at the Presbyterian Hospital in this city.

His death was due to heart disease. He was taken to the hospital three days ago for observation, but it was not realized that his condition was serious and his death came as a complete surprise. Gen. Bell was 63 years old.

Gen. Bell was a West Pointer of the class of 1878, and during his 40 years in the army had many difficult assignments. As a lieutenant he participated in some of the hardest fighting in the Indian campaigns. He was a first lieutenant in the Seventh Cavalry when part of that famous regiment fought the battle of Wounded Knee in December, 1890.

At the beginning of the Spanish war Bell was promoted to the rank of major. He sailed from San Francisco for Manila on June 15, 1898, and took a prominent part in the Philippine campaign. One of his exploits was to swim out into the harbor and around the Spanish fortifications to get information which could not be obtained in any other way.

HOPEWELL.

Mr. Albert W. Taylor, who has been in camp at Camp Forest, Ga., received his discharge and returned home last Sunday.

Rev. E. D. Bougard was here for the first time since September Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnson, Carol and Roy Johnson, all of whom have been sick with the flu, are convalescing.

Mr. and Mrs. Norton Hunley and little baby, who have been ill with flu, are better.

Mrs. W. D. Shull, who has been on the sick list for some time, doesn't seem to improve much.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnie Shulis, of Shultstown, spent a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Taylor, last week.

Miss Jessie Taylor and Morter Paul King, both of East St. Louis, returned last week from a short stay with her parents, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Taylor.

W. H. BAIZE.

To The People of Kentucky:

I MOST respectfully submit my candidacy to the people for the nomination for the Governorship of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, August 2, 1919.

I HAVE entered the race for the Governorship of Kentucky after sincere and patriotic consideration. I shall make a supreme effort to win, and if I win the nomination and am elected I shall employ every prayer and every thought of which my life is capable to serve faithfully the people of my beloved State and to make them an honest and constructive public servant. I shall make the race in the interest of a greater moral, intellectual and industrial Kentucky. I shall submit above a bank account, ideals above bullets, justice above force, honest politics above depraved politics, and public service above public jobs. This is what we have been fighting for. We will not be loyal to the leadership of our great President; we will not be true to the memory of our noble men who gave their lives for the ideals of freedom; we will not treat with honor the high purposes of the four million Americans who responded to the call of their country; we will not sanctify the glorious efforts of our nation to defend human rights, if we fail to vindicate in thought and in conduct, in private and in public life, the ideals for which we have been fighting.

THE first duty of the State and its first necessity is to provide for training which will guarantee the intelligence and production above a bank account, ideals above bullets, justice above force, honest politics above depraved politics, and public service above public jobs. This is what we have been fighting for. We will not be loyal to the leadership of our great President; we will not be true to the memory of our noble men who gave their lives for the ideals of freedom; we will not treat with honor the high purposes of the four million Americans who responded to the call of their country; we will not sanctify the glorious efforts of our nation to defend human rights, if we fail to vindicate in thought and in conduct, in private and in public life, the ideals for which we have been fighting.

IT is a high duty of the Commonwealth to disseminate health information among the masses, to build up a good health sentiment, to protect the people against preventable diseases and assist them in having healthy bodies in which their minds can work. Conserving the vitality and health of the people contributes to their happiness and economic productivity.

UNIVERSAL progress begins and ends with the soil. Improved agriculture is a fundamental proposition and one of monumental importance to every citizen of the State. The growth and progress of our State depend largely upon the success of the farmer, the most important citizen in the land. I believe in every sane and democratic effort fostered in the interest of rural uplift and in disseminating agricultural information among the masses. Kentucky needs more fields of alfalfa, more agricultural limestone and less political bromstone.

THE greater Kentucky and the larger democracy must be accomplished by perfecting the tax and the road laws, correcting every wrong that may exist and by organizing the finances of the State upon a sound, equitable and just basis. I stand for efficiency in all of the departments of State government and for economy in their management. Every dollar paid by the people to the treasury of the Commonwealth shall procure its full worth in honest service, and every cent in the treasury shall be expended to the end that taxes may be lessened and the expense of public business reduced so far as may be compatible with the welfare of the State.

I WELCOME with enthusiasm the good roads sentiment that prevails throughout the State. It is impossible to estimate its meaning to the moral and industrial development of Kentucky. I have always been an earnest advocate of good roads and I shall have special interest in doing all I can in promoting the building and maintaining of good roads in every section of the State.

I BELIEVE in local, State and National prohibition; in temperance, in law and order, and in the rigid enforcement of the law. I have never cast a ballot for the open saloon. A saloonless Kentucky would in my opinion promote in a big way social and economic efficiency. I shall vote and work for the adoption of the State-wide prohibition amendment submitted by the General Assembly of Kentucky and which is now pending before the people. If elected Governor I shall use every proper influence within my power to make temperance effective through the enactment and enforcement of law.

I BELIEVE the next General Assembly should submit to the voters of the State for adoption an amendment to the Constitution of Kentucky giving women full suffrage. If elected Governor I shall recommend the submission of such an amendment and if submitted, I shall vote and work for its adoption. I take this position because I believe it is fundamentally just and in the interest of social and industrial welfare.

I BELIEVE the charitable and benevolent institutions of the State should be free from all political influences and under nonpartisan management. These institutions should be modernized, humanized and democratized.

I BELIEVE very much in a nonpartisan judiciary. I stand for any just and efficient legislation that will secure the needed reform.

I FAVOR every just effort to be made in the interest of the laboring man, and if I am elected Governor I shall be active in safeguarding his rights and promoting his welfare.

guarding his rights and promoting his welfare.

I DO not believe that public life is so much in need of reform as it is in need of honest and capable men who are patriots. I doubt whether it is in need of a larger intelligence so much as it is in need of a larger integrity. If I am elected Governor I shall use my influence and appointive power to have capable and honest citizens in public office.

SOMETHING is wrong in our political life when thousands of voters treat election day, the voice of the people and the hope of freedom, with indifference. We need a reconstructed election day, one that will challenge the patriotism of any citizen who fails to respond to the call of the patriotic ballot. We must not forget that there is a battle line in the ballot box as well as on the battlefield, and that the peril of democracy comes from within and not from without. I am for the enactment and the enforcement of laws that will preserve the purity of the ballot and the integrity of elections.

I HOPE it is not unbecoming for me to say that I have been so busily engaged all my life in educational work and in promoting public organizations for the public benefit that I have not had the time to do very much for myself in a financial way. Having little money with which to make this campaign, I render the experience hard and the task difficult. On account of my financial condition I shall be forced to depend largely upon the personal influence and initiative of my friends. It is my desire and hope that the new Kentucky shall develop an aroused public sentiment with regard to elections which will make it impossible for a candidate for public office to spend great sums of money in procuring his election. One of the perils of democracy comes from political campaign funds frequently secured from questionable sources.

BORN in humble surroundings among the sand hills of Kentucky, trained in every hardship known in the experience of a poor boy, and having earnestly worked for twenty-six years with the great common people for the education of their boys and girls, and never turning down a request for assistance that I could grant, I feel that I have a vision of the needs of the toiling masses and that I am prepared to give every human being a just deal. Not only have my own life and my contact with the masses enabled me to know the needs of the people, but the responsible position which I have held as the head of a great institution for the past twenty-six years has given me a wide experience in the executive management of these problems that enter into the making of a greater Kentucky.

MY interest in a greater Kentucky has prompted me to enter this race, and I desire at this time to emphasize that I have no political ambitions beyond being Governor, and shall not in the future be a candidate for any political office. If I am elected I shall devote every thought and energy of my life to my official duty.

I F elected Governor I shall use every influence of which I am capable to develop a State spirit that will encourage capital to invest with us, giving it and the people a square deal; a State spirit that will enable the people to understand that they are "members one of another," and that their interest is a common interest; a State spirit that will have enough fire to consume any man who would debauch the ideas of a free people or stand in the way of democratic progress, and a State spirit that will proclaim to the world that Kentucky is a land of optimism, of opportunity, of law and order.

I SHALL in my opening address make a full statement of my position on other vital questions that will come before the people of the Commonwealth.

Most respectfully yours,

H. H. CHERRY,
Bowling Green, Ky.

H. H. CHERRY, Bowling Green, Ky.

my desires to the people of Kentucky, and under no circumstances will I be a candidate of any political faction.

If elected Governor, I shall use every proper influence within my power to see that public business is honestly, wisely and economically transacted out in the great democratic open, where all of the people will have an opportunity to see and to know what is going on. If elected, there will be no machine terrorism for the transportation of incompetent men from office to office on the promise to pay political favors and be an impersonal it, a common tool in the hands of a coterie of political manipulators.

INVIOLABLE democracy—the protector of every home and the champion of social and industrial freedom—has won the greatest victory for human rights known in the history of civilization. This is a new resurrection day lighting up a new world. It is a reconstruction day calling on every man to do his duty. The people are witnessing the quickening spirit of a larger democracy, which, like the first faint beams of the morning light, is beginning to illuminate the earth with the radiance of a new daybreak. A larger America will interpret into deeds the ideals of our noble boys who gave their lives for home and country. The inclusion of democracy is to put right above wrong, freedom above slavery, edu-note the integrity of its citizens. It will take full-grown citizens to make a full-grown democracy, and it will take a full-grown system of education, reaching from the primary grade to the highest form of university training, exploited to the highest degree of social and industrial efficiency, to make full-grown citizens.

ABOUT 75 per cent. of the children of the State live in the rural sections, and most of them are deprived of the educational advantages enjoyed by the children of the city. The development of our State depends more than anything else upon the training of the rural children, most of whom will become tillers of the soil and makers of homes, the basis of all wealth and progress. I want to emphasize that the biggest social and economic question before the people of the Commonwealth to-day is the education of the children who live in the rural sections. To the end that education shall be improved, I advocate improved courses of study, better schoolhouses, better qualified and better paid teachers and the payment of the teachers' salaries on the days they are due.

I BELIEVE that every man and woman in the Commonwealth who cannot read and write should have an opportunity to learn to do so and to enjoy the blessings that come from being able to interpret thought. Kentucky must have

AMERICANS PROVE THEIR VALORS. WILSON MADE "PANTORIAL" BLUNDER WHILE IN LONDON.

Hindenburg Line First Broken By American Troops.

American troops were the first to break the Hindenburg line, according to the Daily News in its comment to-day on the report of Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig on the operations from the end of April to the close of hostilities. The News points out that at least the first mention of a break through contained in the Field Marshal's report was in the course of his description of the day's work on September 29, in which he wrote:

"North of Bellenglise the 30th American Division, Maj. Gen. E. M. Lewis, having broken through the deep defenses of the Hindenburg line, stormed Bellincourt and seized Nouroy. On their left the 27th of the honors for creating the most American Division, Maj. Gen. O'Ryan, met with very heavy enfilading machine gunfire, but pressed on with great gallantry as far as Jouy.

A bitter struggle took place for possession of the village. The fighting on the whole front of the 2d American Corps was severe, and in Bellincourt, Nouroy, Gillemont Farm and a number of other points, amid the intricate defenses of the Hindenburg line, strong bodies of the enemy held out with great obstinacy for many hours.

"These points of resistance were gradually overcome, either by the support troops of the American divisions or by the 5th and 3d Australian Divisions."

London.—When photographers' cameras discovered the fact that President Wilson, on the morning of his departure from London, had left his left trouser leg turned up while the other remained in conventional repose on his shoe, it was regarded as the only Wilsonian slip during his strenuous visit.

The picture, taken with the king, will permanently show this "pantorial" discrepancy in the photographic records of the historical occasion. Other incidents cropped up which caused the president himself some amusement, such as when he addressed the lord mayor at the Mansion House luncheon as "Mister Lord Mayor" instead of "My Lord Mayor." But it remained for Mrs. Wilson's negro maid, Susie to carry the most humorous diversion of the trip. The Manchester Guardian to-day relates the story as follows:

"When the famous gold plate was brought out at the state banquet the royal servants thought Miss Susie would be properly impressed. Quite the contrary. Some one asked her what she thought about it, and she said it was very fine indeed, but they had quite as good at the White House.

"There is no gold plate at Washington," said Mrs. Wilson, when she heard of Susie's reply, recalled the fact to her. Susie replied: "I know that, ma'am, but I wasn't going to let them know it." "The Queen, like a true hostess, said to Susie that she hoped she was comfortable. Susie afterwards reported to Mrs. Wilson what the queen had said, and told her:

"You must always ask your guests at the White House if they are comfortable."

"Susie was given the place of honor at the upper servant's table. It must have been like a page from 'The Virginians.'"

307,614,000 ONE-CENT PIECES WERE MINTED.

Washington.—Small change required to pay war tax on many retail articles caused the Government mints to produce 307,614,000 1-cent pieces in 1918, a record output, according to a report to-day by Raymond T. Baker, Director of the Mint. A total of 538,160,000 coins were minted, more than ever before in the nation's history, but owing to the large proportion of pennies the value of the output was $31,745,000 or lower than in 1917. The number of nickels minted was 45,334,000; dimes, 68,654,000; quarters, 32,692,000, and half dollars, 20,769,000. Neither silver dollars nor gold coin were minted.

HOW CECIL DRAPER DIED.

Le Mans, France,

Miss Lillie Draper.

Herrin, Ill.

Dear Miss Draper:

Corporal Arthur B. Shields called my attention to a letter he received from you asking for information concerning your brother Cecil. I understand he has replied to your letter, but being more closely associated with Cecil than he, and knowing the facts in the case of your brother's death I to am writing, feeling as if you are anxious to learn and would appreciate all you can find out. Not being a man of words, a total stranger, and knowing that any consolation I might attempt would be of no avail I will be brief and relate the facts, which are as follows:

On the morning of September 29, Sunday at 5:50 a. m. we started on the top to break the famous Hindenburg line. Our first objective was the village of Bellecourt France about twelve hundred yards from where we started. We had gone nearly two hundred yards when I saw Cecil fall and members of his squad carried him into a shell hole. A piece of Shrapnel had cut his throat going upward and never coming out of his head. He was killed instantly. It is undisputed among us that knew him and saw him die that he never knew what hit him.

We buried him that following day just west of Bellecourt France with others who so gloriously fought and fell for their country. We named the graveyard "Dixie Cemetery". If you will write Lieutenant George H. McClelland, chaplain 1st Battalion, 126 Infantry A. P. Co. 743, he can give you the number of Cecil's grave, and the map reference. He was the chaplain who conducted the burial services and dedicated the cemetery. I have emerged from Hell of war with two wounds. I have seen men killed and wounded galore, have been over the top time and again, and you may think queer that I remember Cecil's death so well and wonder if the statements I make are correct. I'll tell you. I am in charge of 4th Platoon, (Platoon Sergeant) this company. Cecil was in my platoon. It was our first time "over the top." He was the first man in my platoon to get killed. He was an excellent soldier and not only the Platoon but the company felt his loss.

I hope you will pardon my writing and being so frank—I have stated the facts in the case. Anything else I can do or any way I can help you don't hesitate to ask, I'll be more than glad.

Yours very truly,

GLENN W. MOSS, SERGEANT.

FROM REV. MCCONNELL.

December 8 1918.

Mrs. Mattie McConnell,
Simmons, Ky.

Dear Mother:

As I have nothing else to do I will try and write you all a few lines. I have been sent back to my Company. We are back at Camp, having a big time. We don't do anything much. I haven't heard from you all for a long time but guess you all will be surprised to hear from me if you heard what the boys at my Company did. They heard I was dead. Some of the boys got a paper from home and my picture was in it and it said I was killed in action but I am not hurt yet I am in better shape now than ever. I have had that growth cut off of my knee and it don't bother me a bit. I want you to tell me all about papa if he is any better or not and what was the matter with him I heard he had the rheumatism awful bad. Tell him to keep in out of the bad weather and take good care of himself.

Now mother don't worry about me I will be back some day. Tell my brothers and sisters I have got lots to tell them when I get back home. I will tell them about going over the top and the big drive we made and the Germans we killed. Well I don't know just when I will get to come home but soon I hope, but I am very well satisfied here. Tell every body hello for me. I want you all to write to me often I always love to hear from my old home I send my love to all.

From your son,
REV. P. MCCONNELL.

December 5 1918,
France.

Dear Mother and all:

Your letters reached me, including Essey's, Aester's and Jesse's and I will answer them all in this one. I was proud indeed to hear from you all and to know you were all right. I hear from some one most every day. I have gotten a few letters from some people that has gotten my address out of the Hartford paper, of course I was real glad to hear from them, but some of them didn't have any name signed to them but they know me and I think I know who some of them are. I also had a letter from Anna. I am fine; I have no complaint whatever. I was on the Western front forty days and nights went through Argonne forest and can say I heard the cannons roar. But we are back now where we have things more convenient and have far better times. I can tell you more when I get home. I have written Herbert a time or two but can't hear from him. I hope he is better by this time. I don't think it will be long until we will be at home with you. Give every body my love and best regards, and keep the home fires burning until the boys come home. So good bye, until we meet again.

Love to all,

FROM CORP. CLIFFORD

R. MADDOX.

Dear Parents:

As I have not been feeling well I did not write at my usual time. I played a part of a game of football Saturday and it left me rather stiff as you will note from the above. We are now permitted to write our exact location. Hordaux is in the wine producing district of France. For fear that your geography has been forgotten I will add that it is 450 North latitude, about the same latitude as that of Bangor Maine, yet it is so warm that we seldom need a fire. However it is one of the rainiest places I have ever had the misfortune to be in. As you remember we left West Point on September 3rd, which was Tuesday. After passing through Louisville and a part of Indiana we crossed over into Ohio. We arrived in Cleveland about 2 p. m. and took a short rest and paraded the streets for a bit. Some time during the night we passed through Erie Pa. We were next in Buffalo New York. At Binghamton and Elmira, New York, the Red Cross served us with refreshments. In the afternoon we again passed into Pennsylvania. We had a short parade in Scranton, Pa., after which coffee and cakes were served by the Red Cross ladies. I wrote Mamie last week. This week has been unusually liberal to me, having brought me five letters and two bundles of newspapers as well as my Christmas package. Folks back home cannot begin to realize the enthusiasm with which the mail is received. Every evening just after supper the boys all crowd around the stove and wait expecting for the mail to be called out. If some of you could see the look of disappointment when no mail comes I think the mails would be much heavier. The Ohio County boys all regret the account of the death of Cecil Draper and others that they have noticed in the Herald or Republican. The French surely believe the American soldiers are wealthy and by way of compliment charge us accordingly. One gets an ordinary sized table glass of nuts for one franc (about 18cts) a scant handful of grapes for one franc and three or four small apples for one franc, so you can judge that covetousness cannot be prevalent among us. A trip through Scotland and England and France makes one realize the high cost of war. The crowds which greeted us at most of the railway stations consisted chiefly of women and children. Don't expect us home too soon for I fear that if you do you are doomed to disappointment. Hoping to see you all some time during the coming year I must close.

Love to all,

CORP. CLIFFORD R. MADDOX.

BELFAST CEMETERY

PLOT GIVEN TO U. S.

Washington.—The City Corporation of Belfast, Ireland, has given to the "American nation free of charge for all time" the section of the city cemetery wherein are buried thirty-four American soldiers who died of influenza. The American Red Cross in making public a cablegram telling of the gift, said it was considering the erection of a suitable monument and that the "American plot" as the section will be known would be especially decorated and marked.

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surface. Halls' Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Halls' Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists sell.

NO, FATHER IS AHEAD.

Father ruefully gazed, on his last dollar, "Money has wings and house rents make it fly," he said.

"Yes," said his fifteen-year-old son, "and some houses have wings, for I've seen many a house fly."

"You're smarter than your old dad, maybe, my son; but I always thought that no part of a house except the chimney flew!"

AN INJUDICIOUS KNOCK.

"You can knock a thing in such a way as to boost it," said Attorney General Gregory in an address in Washington. "Injudicious orators often make this mistake."

"Perhaps you've heard of the revivalist who shouted:

"I tell you, friends, hell contains nothing but chorus girls, cocktails and roulette wheels!"

"Thereupon a young man in a back seat yelled:

"Oh, death, where is thy sting?"

THAT KNIFE-LIKE PAIN

Is Only One of Nature's Warnings of Weak or Disordered Kidneys.

Have you a lame back, aching day and night? Do you feel sharp pains after stopping? Are the kidneys sore? Is their action irregular? Use Doan's Kidney Pills—the medicine recommended by so many Hartford people. Read this case:

R. H. Gillespie, blacksmith, Union St., Hartford, says: "As my trade caused me to do quite a bit of hard work and bending over, I suffered severely from backache. Sometimes it seemed as if my back were pierced with a knife, the pain was so sharp and severe. The action of my kidneys was too frequent and the kidney secretions were scalding and highly colored. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Williams' drug store gave the best of results, and I am glad to recommend this medicine." Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Gillespie had. Foster-McBurn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo N. Y.
